

Bryan Mosko

Bryan Mosko joins VictimsFirst after spending six years in Asia working in live entertainment for AEG Presents. During his time at AEG, Bryan advocated for improved safety at live events while striving to provide a safe environment for people attending large-scale and community events. Collaborating with VictimsFirst, Bryan provides insight into how live events are planned, how to prevent future incidents, and support for fundraising endeavors.

Since relocating to Los Angeles, Bryan has worked, in conjunction with the Academy of Country Music, to raise money for those affected by Borderline Shooting in Ventura County. In addition, he has worked to help raise money for the homeless in Los Angeles through multiple charities via the LA Gives Back annual event.
